Dear Mrs. Ferry,

Many thanks for the date on security designations.

If you ever come to a more precise definition of crypto, I'd also appreciate that.

Sincerely,

Buddey

Route 7
Frederick, Maryland 21701

Dear Mr. Weisberg,

I had occasion to talk to you on the night you appeared as a guest on the Bud Haley radio show on KLAC.

At that time, you requested a copy of the Defense Department's Security Clearances and classifications which I am enclosing. I hope will this information/clarify the Cryptographic clearance to you.

Sincerely yours,

Mildred Ferry

HANDLING CLASSIFIED DATA

GENERAL

Dependent upon the degree of protection required in the interest of national defense, information is classified TOP SECRET, SECRET, CONFIDENTIAL, or CONFIDENTIAL - "Modified Handling Authorized."

All authorized persons having custody of classified matter when it is not in approved storage containers shall keep it under constant surveillance and be in a physical position to exercise direct control over it. Such persons shall cover classified material, turn it face down, place it in storage containers, or otherwise protect it when unauthorized persons are present; and they shall return all classified data to storage containers as soon as practicable after use.

Combination padlocks used for storage containers shall be locked after removal from the container, to prevent possible compromise of the combination.

Terms such as CRYPTOGRAPHIC INFORMATION, RESTRICTED DATA, and FORMERLY RESTRICTED DATA are not security classifications, but designate types of classified information which require special handling.

Foreign Travel

AMC Form 159, Notifications of Foreign Travel, is required from any person with TOP SECRET, SECRET, or CONFIDENTIAL Access Authorization who plans to travel to any country except Canada or Mexico.

If the foreign travel is to or through a Sino-Soviet Bloc country, or involves attendance at an international scientific technical, engineering, or professional meeting outside the United States when it can be anticipated that Sino-Soviet Bloc representatives will attend, the employee must notify Industrial Security at least thirty (30) days in advance; furnish necessary information about the travel, and acknowledge receipt of a security briefing from the Industrial Security Office.
